2023/24 Price List

Dear Friends,

Before I say anything else... CONGRATULATIONS!

So much time and emotions are spent on searching for "The One". So it is an extremely exciting time when you have that wonderful moment of realisation that your search is truly over and you've found that perfectly imperfect person you want to wake up next to for the rest of your life!

When it comes to selecting a photographer for your big day, you really are spoilt for choice here in WA. There are so many epic photographers and even I, as a photographer myself, struggled to make a choice on my own wedding day. In the end I went with my gut and chose the person who made me feel most relaxed. Because at the end of the day your wedding is completely about the two of you and you'll want to remember it as a FUN and HAPPY day, with as little stress as possible! I pride myself on being inconspicuous throughout the ceremony, and am always conscious of the fact that I am privileged being able to be a part of one of the most important and beautiful days of your lives. I'll never grow tired of capturing the raw emotions and beautiful moments that just can't be provided by any other day!

I would love to meet you and have a coffee (no obligation), to hear more about your story and, most importantly, for you to get an idea of whether i'm the one for you!

I look forward to hearing from you!

Graeme

Engagement/Couple Shoots

Engagement shoots are becoming more and more popular, and there are various reasons they're a good idea. Some like to use the shoot to get a few great pictures to use when breaking the big news to family and friends. Some just like to have a record of the joy and excitement they're feeling together as a couple. Some even like to use it to capture the actual proposal!

I see it as a fantastic way for you to get to know me and get comfortable with me, in a more relaxed and informal setting, before it comes to the actual main event... your wedding day! That way we can carry that familiarity into the wedding day itself and just have a lot of fun.
